DUELING IN EUROPE.

One Thousand a Year in France and 3,000 in Germany. The duel is still a very common thing in Europe.

More duels are fought in Germany than in any other country. Most of them, however, are student duels, which culminate in nothing more serious than a blooded chest or torn sleeve.

Of all German universities, the University of Jena and Göttingen are most devoted to the code. In Göttingen the number of duels averages one a day, year in and year out. On one day several years ago 18 duels were fought in Göttingen in 24 hours. In Jena the record for one day in recent times is 11. Fully 4,000 student duels are fought every year in the German empire. In addition to these there are the more serious duels between officers and civilians. Among Germans of mature years the annual number of duels is about 100.

Next to Germany, France is most given to the duel. It is estimated that every year uncounted meetings, "merely to satisfy honor"—that is, merely to give two men the opportunity to wipe out the crawling sword or firing pistol in one way or to preclude the slightest chance of injury. In the duel statistics these meetings are not reckoned, as they are far less serious than the serious duels. Of the serious duels, France can boast fully 1,000 from New Year's to New Year's. The majority of these are among army officers. More than half of these results in wounds, nearly 20 per cent in serious wounds.

Italy has had 3,700 duels in the last ten years and has lost 80 citizens by death on the field of honor. Some 3,400 of these meetings were consummated with sabers, 170 with pistols, 90 with rapiers and 1 with revolvers. In 1914 cases the insult was given in newspaper articles or in public letters regarding the conduct of the war.

Political discussions led to 539, religious discussions to 29. Women were the cause of 189. Quarrels at the gambling table were responsible for 168.

A summary shows that, as regards numbers, the sequence of dueling countries is Germany, France, Italy, Austria, and Russia. As regards deadliness of duels Italy comes first, followed by France, Russia, and Austria in the order named. For the most serious duels the pistol is the favorite weapon in all five countries.—New York Sun.

OBJECTS OF WORKSHIP.

It is in the West that Savage usually is the object of worship. In the East, however, it is the object of worship.

Savage, wherever they come across meteorites of large size, are apt to regard them as objects of worship. Such, however, was not the dignified fate of a very remarkable specimen that is now in the National Museum. This strange meteorite is four feet in diameter, weighing 1,400 pounds approximately, and has the shape of a ring. It was found in the State of California, near the town of Catalina, and was used as an anvil by Mexicans at Tucson. In this employment it was discovered by Dr. Irwin of the United States army, who bought it for a small sum and gave it to the Smithsonian Institution. Examine the substance of this meteorite originally was largely stone, but the stone parts became disintegrated and disappeared after it fell, leaving the ring of iron. Of 400 meteorites that have been seen actually to fall, only about a dozen were metallic, the rest being mainly of stony material, though containing more or less iron.

On the other hand, nearly all of the meteorites picked up in a casual way are masses of metal. It is probably the case that a great majority of such bodies are stony, but meteorites of that description do not attract notice when lying on the ground. All of those that are extremely interesting in view of the belief now entertained by science that the composition of meteorites is identical with that of the earth's crust. Light upon the make up of the terrestrial globe. In fact, according to this theory, the make up of the earth is much like that of the average meteorite. Obviously the present theory assumes the meteorites come to have extraordinary importance, for man's knowledge of the earth's composition is so restricted almost entirely to the surface of the globe, the earth's interior remains almost unknown.—Washington Post.

The London Leader tells this amusing anecdote of Queen Victoria's childhood: The Duchess of Kent was Queen Victoria's mother, and there is an anecdote which tells that when she was in the Duke of Kent's household a gentleman called Mr. Brown. The princess' father called him Brown, so the princess imitated him, and used to call him Brown, but the Duchess, who was a very strict mother, would not call him Brown, but Mr. Brown. The next morning the princess said, "Good morning, Brown, and good night for I am going to bed now."

The Tarheel. An Arkansas lawyer, who was a native of North Carolina, not long ago ended his life in a duel with a native of North Carolina, that they both hailed from the same state. So he dropped some cheering gun, stepped upon it, and pretended that his heel had broken under the door. This gave him an opportunity to say that he was a Tarheel, and that the warmth of the room had made the tar run. The verdict proved that the Tarheels stood together.—New York Tribune.

An Arrogant Epitaph is that on the tomb of Alexander the Great, "Suffice this man, and no more." But no more! and we can but drop a tear upon his pall. He seemed to have been a man of great power, but he was a man of no more.

His funeral took place from the last Baptist Church, Washington, D. C., at 3 o'clock, Dr. A. B. B. presiding. A large crowd of sympathizers was present to pay the last tribute of respect to the deceased. Dr. B. B. preached an able sermon and kept his faithful tones in view. The hearers grew more and more interested as he spoke of the pathetic ways of the character of the deceased. Mr. Jackson died at the age of 55 years. He leaves many relatives and friends to mourn his loss.

"Peace to his ashes." Mr. A. D. Price, of Richmond, Funeral Director.

Mrs. Martha Banks of North St. James Street will visit relatives in Washington next week.

Mrs. Pollie Nicholas' club for the organization of a Court of Calanthe Johnson's Saw Mill is confined to his bed but is now's at the hospital.

Mr. Paul E. Monday, at 5 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Monday, between Lehigh and Jackson Sts.

Independent Club Meets. The Independent Social club will meet to-morrow evening at the residence of Mr. Samuel Miller, corner 7th and Baker Streets at 5 o'clock.

MONEY CAN BEHOLD! We direct attention to the advertisement of the Saks and Company.

A Pigeon Race. In France pigeons are regarded as valuable property. In case of war, and especially the French ministry of war offered a prize for the winner of a pigeon race from Paris to London, 300 miles. No less than 7,466 birds were entered in the race. The winner made the distance in 34 minutes, an average of over 34 miles an hour.

FROM OLIFTON FORGE.

CLIFTON Forge, July 8, 1897. Services were held at each of our churches Sunday.

The talk since Thursday night has been about the Grand United Order of Galilean Fishermen. The order is a very large one and the members were out in full dress regalia. Master of ceremonies, Mr. B. B. Taylor, had the order assembled in their secret chambers and march to the First Baptist Church. The master of ceremonies, Mr. W. S. Thomas, in a few well rounded sentences introduced the orator of the day, Rev. O. C. Steward, of Bristol, Tenn., who preached a very fine sermon from Acts 10:26. The Reverend was at his best and proved to the most skeptical of his audience that the many benevolent societies of the Grand United Order of Galilean Fishermen had their origin in Christ Jesus who selected a few followers and promised to make them fishers of men.

All were well pleased and the applicants since are very numerous. After the sermon the members and audience repaired to Mr. F. Scott's hall where a bountiful refreshment was waiting. We were very sorry that Messrs. G. Watson, J. H. Payne and Miss M. Nickens, of Covington, Va., had to leave before the feast.

Mr. Samuel Lettich and J. H. Bowles are both wearing broad smiles over the presentation of a fine baby girl. Mrs. A. J. Thomas and her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Jones and Master Clarence left for the White Sulphur Springs, West Va.

Mr. C. B. Brown and Mrs. M. A. Penn spent last Sunday and Monday in Richmond, Va. They speak in the highest terms of the PLANET Office and its fearless editor.

Mr. George Johnson made a hasty trip to Covington, Va., to see the County Clerk. The girls are thinking that Johnson is bringing back the long looked for license.

Messdames O. J. Douglas and E. W. Smith are still in the sick list. We hope soon to see them home.

Mr. Carter of St. St., was confined to his bed last week with La Grippe. We are glad to see him again.

The Sentimental Question. "Jove, that was terrible—man fell overboard in midocean the other day and never was seen again!" said Hicks.

"Drowned?" asked Mr. Hicks. "Oh, no, of course not; sprained his ankle probably," said Hicks.—Harlem Life.

The People Nearest the Pole. The Ethna, a handful of Eskimos numbering probably 100 persons, are the most northern people of the world. They have their abiding place on the west coast of Greenland, between 76 and 79 degrees north latitude. For many years after Dr. Kane came home with his vivid and absorbing story of these isolated natives they were supposed to have built their stone huts nearer the pole than any other human beings. It is known now, however, that the Eskimos are not so far from the pole as was supposed.
